

EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

The ICGR's Executive Educational Seminars focus on bringing the world's most experienced practitioners from gaming and other highly regulated industries, UNLV faculty, and our specialized industry Educational Partners to deliver unique and interactive seminars. Our core educational mission includes delivering agnostic, current, and pertinent content to our program attendees.

Our programs blend client-based input, real world learning including workshops, interviews, breakout sessions, and multiple track learning experiences. Our ability to offer online interactive experiences with people from around the world is now readily available.

The ICGR's educational partners include UNLV alumni, current gaming industry executives, ICGR staff, and UNLV distinguished fellows from around the world. Our world-class expert practitioner executives provide the most updated skills development and practical training that can't be found anywhere else in the world. Most importantly, best practices and best policy content is presented in an agnostic, independent, and case study learning formats.

Virtual Programs

These seminars allow participants and practitioners from across the world to exchange ideas in a deep and meaningful way for career enhancement and professional development.

In-Person Programs

When possible, The Center offers our online content in an in-person format at UNLV and other nearby locations to encourage in-person discourse and networking.

Custom Programs

The Center has a unique and unmatched ability to gather experts from across the world to create custom curriculum to meet the needs of a specific organization or program. We work with our partners to develop and execute custom seminars.
